VE Day stands for Victory in Europe Day

Second World War

Britain had been at war since September 1939. The war had caused great hardships for the entire country.

384,000 British soldiers were killed and many more were wounded.

Cities, such as Coventry, London and Plymouth were badly bombed and many were killed. Buildings were destroyed and people were left homeless.

It was usually impossible for soldiers to visit home due to the war.

Food was rationed; before the war, Britain imported lots of its food from abroad. With German submarines manning the seas, importing food was too risky.

The End of War

By the end of April 1945, the leader of Italy, Benito Mussolini and the leader of Germany, Adolf Hitler, were dead. Germany was in ruins.

On 7th May, at 2.41 a.m., in Reims in France, Germany surrendered. This meant that the war in Europe was over.

The News Spreads

Before long, the exciting news spread that the war in Europe was over. People ran out on the streets to celebrate and church bells were rung to spread the news.

In accordance with arrangements between the three great powers, tomorrow, Tuesday, will be treated as Victory in Europe Day and will be regarded as a holiday.

VE Day

The following day was one of great celebration. Churchill made a speech in which he said: 'My dear friends, this is your hour. This is not victory of a party or of any class. It's a victory of the great British nation as a whole.'

Communities had street parties and churches held services of thanksgiving.

Challenge 3

Wartime Carrot Cake

During the Second World War when sugar was rationed to 8 oz. per week, carrots were used to naturally sweeten cakes and biscuits.

The sweetness of the carrots replaced some of the sugar used in the original recipes.

8 oz. self-raising flour
3 oz. margarine or cooking fat
3 oz. sugar
4 oz. finely grated carrot
2 oz. sultanas
a little milk or water
1 reconstituted dried egg or 1 fresh egg if obtainable

METHOD

Preheat oven to 220°C / 425°F / Gas Mark 7

Sift the flour into a mixing bowl

Rub in the margarine or cooking fat

Add sugar, carrot, sultanas and egg

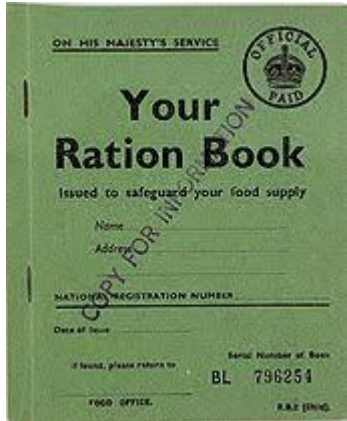

Mix well and then add sufficient milk or water to make sticky

Pour mixture into a lined baking tin and cook until golden in colour

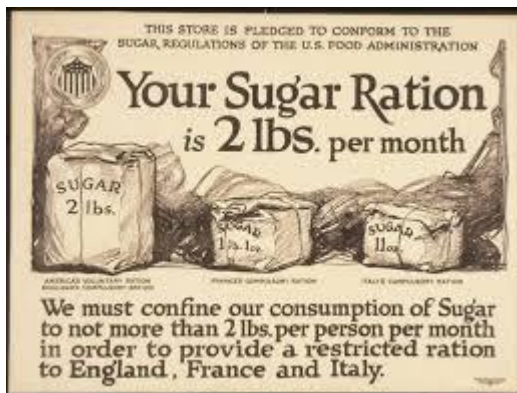

Make some party food for a VE Day picnic. Use the wartime carrot cake recipe for an extra challenge.

Challenge 4

Find out about rationing:

- What was rationing?
- What were ration books?
- Why were there different colour ration books?
- Why did the government issue ration books?
- How did rationing work?
- When was rationing introduced?
- Was it only food that was rationed?
- When did food rationing stop?

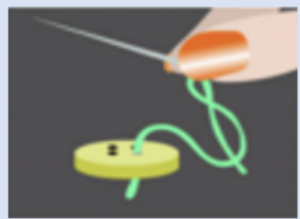

Challenge 5

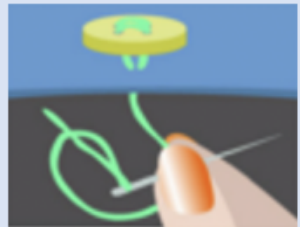

Draw or paint Beenham war memorial. You could visit the memorial outside the church on your daily walk and take a photograph or copy it from this picture.

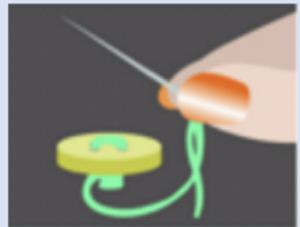

Challenge 6

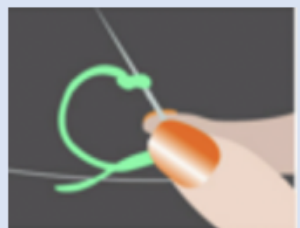

1. Thread your needle and knot the end. Push the threaded needle up through the fabric and the back of one of the holes in your button. Pull until the knot reaches the back of the fabric.

2. Push the needle through the second hole from the front of the button to the back. Pull excess thread through, but don't tug too tight as you sew through the holes. Repeat the process by going up through the third hole and down the fourth.

3. Repeat the movement through all four holes several times. Then make a shank to hold the button more securely.

4. To finish: On the wrong side, push the needle and thread through the existing stitches to secure. Remove the needle and tie off the thread. Then cut off the excess.

During the war, clothes were also rationed and it was necessary to be resourceful and mend clothes. In addition, tailors and seamstresses played a key role in British society and were relied on to make children's clothes out of old skirts and trousers.

Sewing a button was an essential sewing skill which wartime children learned and remains a good life skill 75 years after VE Day.

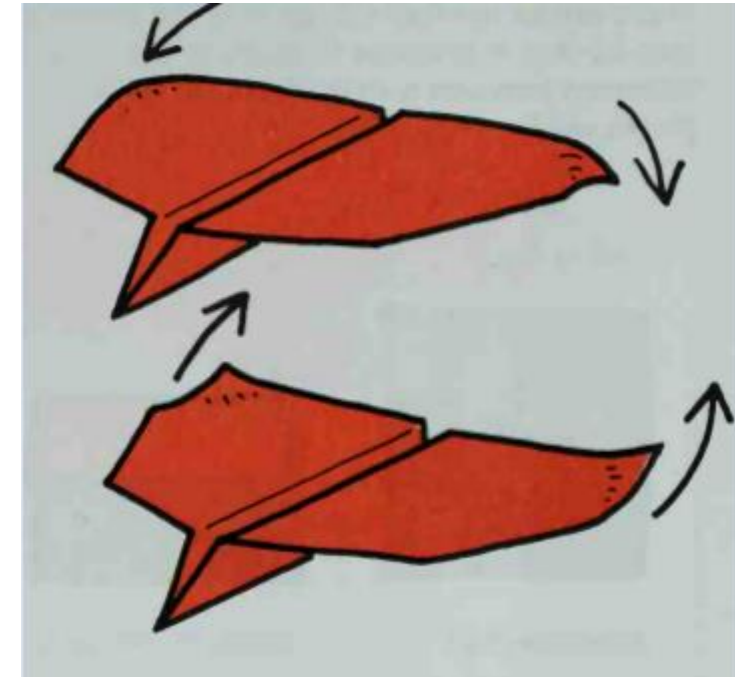

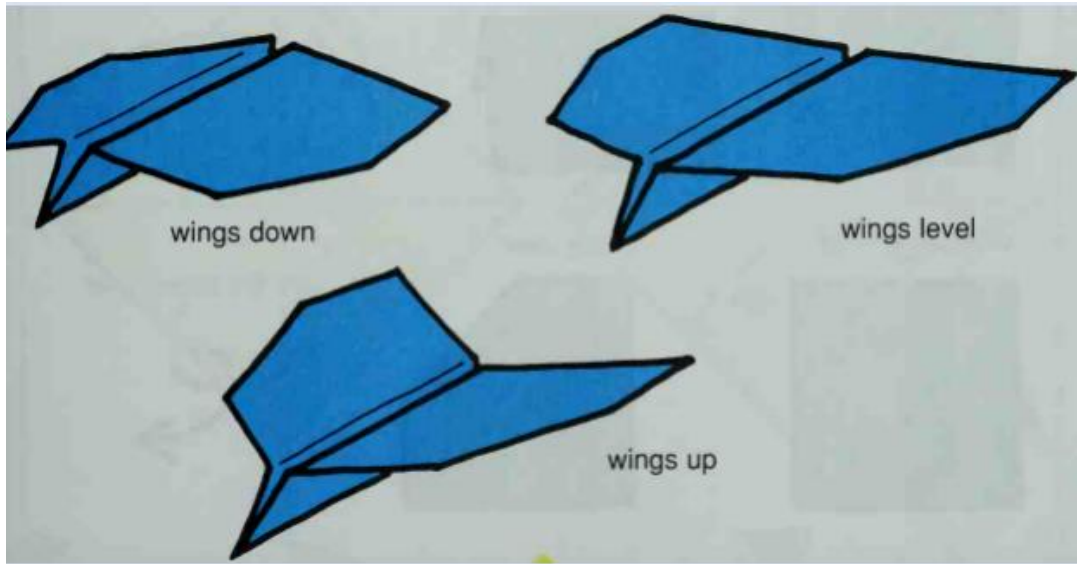

Follow the instructions to sew on a button.

Challenge 7

Find out how the shape of a wing can change a planes direction.

- Make a paper aeroplane
- What happens when you change the wings?

Challenge 8

During the war, everyone had to cover their windows and doors at night to prevent light from escaping. If light did escape, enemy aircraft were able to see towns and cities during their bombing raids.

During the war, a popular past-time in the evenings was to make shadow animals.

How many can you make?

All you need is a torch, a very dark room and flexible fingers!

Challenge 9

LS Lowry (1887-1976) painted this picture of the famous street parties that took place all over the country for VE Day celebrations in 1945. Sit in your front garden and imagine you and your neighbours are having a street party, draw what your road would look like having a street party.

CODES

Cracking codes and unravelling the true meaning of secret messages involves loads of maths, from simple addition and subtraction, to data handling and logical thinking. In fact, some of the most famous code breakers in history have been mathematicians who have been able to use quite simple maths to uncover plots, identify traitors and influence battles. One of the most famous codebreakers during WW2 was Alan Turing. Write a secret message using this code.

Challenge 11

This war medal is awarded to all full-time personnel of the armed forces between 1939 and 1945. Design your own VE Day medal. Think carefully about the colours and pictures you use.
